

European-Native American interaction

Debate:

The Spanish did more harm to the Native American societies with which they interacted than either the British or the French.

Debate: The Spanish did more harm to the Native American societies with which they interacted than either the British or the French.

Some of you will be assigned to a team argue in support of or against this statement. Your team will need to support your arguments with accurate, specific evidence. Each person will be given two minutes to speak. Please be prepared to turn in your written arguments.

Intro

Argument 1

Rebuttal

Argument 2

Rebuttal

Argument 3

Rebuttal

Conclusion

Debate: The Spanish did more harm to the Native American societies with which they interacted than either the British or the French.

Some of you will be assigned to serve as audience in this debate. In addition to evaluating the outcome of the debate, members of this group will also be asked to turn in a written assignment arguing each side—at least one paragraph arguing why the Spanish did more harm than the British or French, and at least one paragraph arguing the Spanish did not do the most harm. This will be due on the day of the debate.